Color TV. Homes equipped with color TV sets totaled 82.86 million, or 95% of all TV homes, as of Jan. 1, 1987, according to A.C. Nielsen Company estimates.

Viewing and Listening. The extent to which radio and television sets were used as indicated in the tables that follow. The television figures were furnished by the Nielsen company and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI). The radio data came from RAB and other sources as noted.

Note: The dollar volume figures represent total considerations reported for all transactions with the exception of minority interest transfers in which control of the stations did not change hands and stations sold as part of larger company transactions, such as the Capcities buy of ABC. All sales have been approved by the FCC. Also, prior to 1978, a combined AM-FM facility (replaced last year by Groups, see below) was counted as one station in computing the total number of stations traded. Now AM-FM combinations as well as groups, are counted by their individual stations.

*Prior to 1971, figures represent total number of deals involving both radio and television stations. Beginning in 1971, when the FCC's one-to-a-customer rule, prohibiting the sale of co-located TV and and radio stations, became effective, figures represent the total number of separately located TV and radio stations that were sold in packages. In 1985, the mergers of large groups with interests other than broadcast stations could not be evaluated, since individual station values were not broken out of the larger sales. Group sales totals are now limited to compilations of "pure" stations sale—those only concerning TV and radio stations.
